

José Mendes

José Mendes is a civil engineer, with a doctorate and aggregate in Regional and Urban Systems and postgraduate qualifications from the Universities of Oxford, Harvard and ISCTE. He is CEO of the Mestre Casais Foundation and Professor of Regional and Urban Systems at the University of Minho. He was part of the XXI and XXII governments (2015-2020), where he was Secretary of State for the Environment, Secretary of State for Mobility and Secretary of State for Planning. He was a member of the Portuguese Parliament (2021). Chairman of the Transport Decarbonisation Alliance (2017-2019), Vice-Rector of the University of Minho and Consultant and Evaluator at the following European Commission agencies (2001-2009): DG Research, (Brussels), European Training Foundation (Turin), Education, Audiovisual and Cultural Executive Agency (Brussels). As a teacher and researcher, he has worked at various universities in Italy, Poland, the United States of America, Brazil and Mozambique. He is the author of over a hundred scientific articles and books in the field of cities, transport and sustainability.