

Luísa cortesão

Luísa Cortesão holds a degree in architecture from the Faculty of Architecture of the University of Lisbon, a postgraduate degree in Restoration and Enhancement of Historic Buildings and Complexes, and an advanced diploma from the Doctoral Program in Architecture from the Instituto Superior Técnico. She was coordinator of the Campo Maior Regional Planning and Development Program (GTL) and a technician for the Directorate-General for National Buildings and Monuments, Parques de Sintra - Monte da Lua S.A., the Directorate-General for Cultural Heritage, and the Lisbon City Council. She has been responsible for numerous conservation and restoration projects and works involving architectural heritage throughout the country, served as a jury member for international competitions, and has written numerous articles in specialized journals. She is currently Director of the Department of Projects and Works of the Cultural Heritage Institute, I.P., which is responsible for executing the works of the PRR Cultura.