

Maria João Freitas

Facilitator of collaborative approaches, Assistant Researcher at the National Civil Engineering Laboratory (Centre for Urban and Territorial Studies / Buildings Department). With a research background in the field of social ecology, around housing issues and integrated socio-territorial interventions, she is currently dedicated to promoting alliances of knowledge of a transdisciplinary nature, namely through the design, facilitation and development of 'Collective Intelligence' processes in the context of promoting governance systems, social innovation and co-creation and co-implication around 'commons', solutions and transformation processes and their respective transitions.